3. The meeting was held in his small bedroom, which displayed several left-wing posters including a large one of Leon TROTSKY. It was attended by 13 persons, four of whom were females.

4. The purpose of the meeting was to discuss Marxist theories on economics, particularly those on wages, prices and profit. Members read sections in turn from a Karl MARX pamphlet on this subject, produced by Progress Publishers of Moscow.

5. Several of those present enthusiastically took part in the discussion which dealt in some detail with the technicalities of Marxism. However, a few present took no active part whatsoever.

6. Among those present who took an active part were:
