

SPECIAL BRANCH

A HISTORY: 1883—2006

RAY WILSON & IAN ADAMS

B<sup>b</sup>
Bireback Publishing

CONTENTS

Acknowledgements .....	ix
Preface by Lord Peter Imbert CVO QPM DL .....	xi
Heads of Special Branch from 1883 to 2006 .....	xiii
Introduction .....	xv
Chapter One: Fenian Terrorism .....	1
Chapter Two: Anarchists and Bolsheviks .....	39
Chapter Three: The Suffragette Movement .....	55
Chapter Four: Establishment .....	67
Chapter Five: Protection .....	73
Chapter Six: Naturalisation and Port Controls .....	83
Chapter Seven: German Espionage and Subversive Pacifism in Great Britain .....	87
Chapter Eight: The Rise and Fall of the Directorate of Intelligence .....	97
Chapter Nine: The Secret Service Committee 1925 .....	107
Chapter Ten: The Irish Troubles 1919-23 .....	115
Chapter Eleven: The Communist Threat .....	131
Chapter Twelve: The Reds in the Special Branch Bed .....	149
Chapter Thirteen: Sedition, the Invergordon Mutiny and Elias versus Passmore .....	157
Chapter Fourteen: The Business of Informing: Henri Le Caron, William Foster Watson and the Morning Post .....	165
Chapter Fifteen: Fascism .....	171
Chapter Sixteen: The 1939-40 IRA Bombing Campaign .....	181
Chapter Seventeen: Soviet Espionage in the 1930s .....	207
Chapter Eighteen: The War Years .....	217
Chapter Nineteen: The Return of Peace .....	225
Chapter Twenty: The Spying Season .....	237
Chapter Twenty-One: Demonstrations and Public Order .....	247
Chapter Twenty-Two: New Challenges .....	257

Chapter Twenty-Three: A New Wave of IRA Terror in England.....	267
Chapter Twenty-Four: The Diversity of Special Branch Work.....	295
Chapter Twenty-Five: A Very Stressful Period.....	321
Chapter Twenty-Six: Non-Irish Activities.....	347
Chapter Twenty-Seven: Protection.....	367
Chapter Twenty-Eight: The Perennial Irish Problem and Transfer of the Lead Role against the IRA to the Security Service.....	375
Bibliography .....	393
Index .....	401