

30TH November

1967

N.S.Y. observations on draft note of meeting held on 13th November (see document 18),

6th December

Base 500 observations on note

To me on 22.1.68.

The Home Office instigated a review by the Security Service and Special Branch of the Metropolitan police of their respective responsibilities and current work. The review did not disclose any major areas of unnecessary duplication, but it proved useful in bringing both organisations to consider where their work might overlap and to effect closer co-ordination. Examples of this are the discussions which have been initiated for the sharing of coverage by agents in the subversive field and the secondment of a senior officer from Special Branch to the Security Service for at least six months to obtain close knowledge of its work and methods. Details of the review are set out in the note within of a meeting held at the Home Office in November.

- ? 1. To P.S.
2. Send copies of note to Security Service and New Scotland Yard.

This is relevant to the talk you had with Mr Brodie and Mr Ferguson Smith the other day. I think Mr W. mentioned that Mr W. would lead his meeting. I am sure you will wish to see the note of it.
